Dear Ms. Burghardt-Jesson:

Thank you for the update on the Middlesex-London Paramedic Service Mobile Vaccine Delivery Initiative.

Your community's ingenuity in finding a way to deliver vaccines to those with transit and transportation challenges is amazing. It's that kind of innovation and Ontario spirit that will help us defeat this terrible virus and return the province to better times.

I also see that you recently opened the region's first drive-thru vaccination clinic. That shift workers are especially fond of it as they don't need an appointment. I can't thank you enough. You and your team are true champions.

The key since day one has been vaccinations and it remains so. Our government is committed to having the most successful immunization campaign in the country. All the credit goes to the hard work of our incredible frontline heroes, pharmacists and public health officials – and the team in Middlesex-London. Each shot in the arm is a step closer to ending this pandemic.

Thank you once again.

Sincerely,
